

Abstract

An adjustable locking mount system permits rotation about at least one of x, y, and z axes. Methods provide for rotating and rocking the mount to obtain the 5 desired position, fixing the mount in the desired position, and mounting an object onto the mount.